

Veterans and Military Benefits

There are different types of financial benefits for those active serving in the military, veterans, and family members. Your personal advisor will help you understand the benefits and qualifications. Find out more by contacting us at financialoptions@frenchpastryschool.com

Post-9/11 GI Bill, Chapter 33 - The Post-9/11 GI Bill provides up to a maximum of 36 months of education benefits to qualified veterans. Benefits include a monthly stipend based on a basic housing allowance and a book stipend, both paid directly to the veteran. A tuition and fee component, which is paid directly to the college, is also available under this program.

Montgomery GI Bill, Chapter 30 - The Montgomery GI Bill Active Duty Program provides up to a maximum of 36 months of education benefits. These benefits may be used for degree and certificate programs, as well as, some short-term skills programs. Remedial, deficiency, and refresher courses may be approved under certain circumstances.

Montgomery GI Bill Selected Reserve, Chapter 1606 – The Montgomery GI Bill Selected Reserve, Chapter 1606 is specifically designed for members of the Selected Reserves and National Guard. Eligibility for this program is determined by the unit component with a Notice of Basic Eligibility (NOBE) given to the service member as documentation of eligibility.

Reserve Education Assistance Program (REAP), Chapter 1607 - The Reserve Education Assistance Program (REAP) provides up to a maximum of 36 months of education benefits to members of the Selected Reserves, Individual Ready Reserves and National Guard, who were called or ordered to active service in response to a war or national emergency, as declared by the President or Congress.

Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Program (VR&E), Chapter 31 - The Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Program (VR&E) provides vocational rehabilitation services to veterans with service-connected disabilities. This program is designed to assist injured veterans with disabilities to achieve a seamless transition from military service through a successful rehabilitation to suitable employment after service.

Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP), Chapter 32 - The Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP) is available to veterans who first entered active duty between January 1, 1977 and June 30, 1985 and elected to make voluntary contributions from their military pay to participate in this education benefit program.

Transfer of Entitlement (TOE) - In certain circumstances, the Department of Defense offers active duty service members serving on or after August 1, 2009 the opportunity to transfer their educational benefits to their spouse and/or dependent children.

Survivors and Dependents Educational Assistance Program (DEA), Chapter 35 -The Survivors and Dependents Educational Assistance Program (DEA) offers up to a maximum of 45 months of education benefits. Spouses and children of veterans who died of a service-related condition or who are classified with a 100 percent service-connected disability may be eligible.

Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship - Children of an active duty service member who died in the line of duty after September 10, 2001 may be eligible for the Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship. Benefits are similar to those of the Post 9/11 GI Bill.

Tuition Assistance - The Tuition Assistance Program is administered through the Department of Defense for active duty service members, active reservists or active members of the National Guard. Service members would be required to apply for tuition assistance through their specific branch of the service.

Tuition Assistance Top-Up (TATU) - The Tuition Assistance Top-Up Program (TATU) is administered through the Department of Veterans Affairs. It is designed to supplement the cost of tuition and fees not covered by the Tuition Assistance Program. Service members should consult with their educational service officer prior to application.
